EXECUTIVE PRESENCE
Communication and gravitas often determines how you’re perceived

In a famous 1971 study, it was learned that audiences judge how they feel about us mostly from the non-verbal communication (tone and gestures) we use while delivering our message. Without visuals and a flexible tonal range, people’s minds generally become distracted with other thoughts. This “mental fog” kills our memorability.

Learn to harness the power of your voice and gestures in this fun and highly interactive training.

TOPICS INCLUDE:
- Gesture and move with intent
- Overcome fear
- Eliminate “junk words” and verbal tics
- Harmonize your tone and gestures with the words you’re saying

AGENDA:
- :00 - :20 Eliminate “junk words” from your vocabulary
- :20 - :35 Overcome the fear of speaking in front of others
- :35 - :60 Learn to harmonize your tone, gestures and emphasis for greater impact
